“My deepest thanks and appreciation go to the staff, volunteers and donors who have made the David Lawrence Center what it is today. I share my excitement with you as we embark on this new vision and future together.”

From the CEO

David Schimmel

This past year proved to be one of the most exciting – even transformative – years in the history of the David Lawrence Center and Foundation, as we committed ourselves to an organizational transformation process that is now leading us toward becoming the undisputed leader in behavioral healthcare. This process has resulted in a new charter statement of values and has involved the entire Center and Foundation staff as we create a new future as a world-class behavioral healthcare provider for a world-class community.

We thank the volunteer leaders, particularly Kelly Townsend, who have led our staff and boards through the revitalizing process of developing a new vision that ensures the Center will pursue the most innovative and state-of-the-art strategies in order to provide life-changing care to our clients. The results are already apparent through the recognition received both nationally and regionally for some of our program innovations.

We at the Center have re-committed ourselves to building new collaborations with our community partners. In addition, we are determined to create an army of advocates and have initiated an intensified volunteer program to help us better engage the community and educate local citizens on the importance of mental health and substance abuse services. Moreover, the Center has overhauled our communications strategy and developed a plan to make the David Lawrence Center a household name in Collier County.

Our plan also involves significant capital improvements, including a new crisis stabilization unit, a new outpatient services facility, and a new support facility along with overall upgrades to the entire Polly Keller campus. The Center has renovated the Crossroads residential treatment facility, dramatically improved the infrastructure of our site and developed a new overall facilities plan to move us into the future. To accomplish this, we will continue to partner with numerous donors, government agencies, and private citizens to secure the support necessary to make our future a reality.

Finally, to our greatest asset, our clients, we pledge to operate with integrity, doing what we say we will do and always keeping our word.

My deepest thanks and appreciation go to the staff, volunteers and donors who have made the David Lawrence Center what it is today. I share my excitement with you as we embark on this new vision and future together.

Community Engagement

Renovation & Expansion

Bill was a freshman at college when he experimented with drugs and experienced a terrifying psychotic break. He believed the whole world – even his family – was against him.

His distraught parents turned to the David Lawrence Center Crisis Stabilization Unit where he was kept safe and medically supervised. Bill spent the next two years working with a psychiatrist and therapist to identify and cope with these damaging thoughts so he could return to his studies.

As he nears graduation, Bill's relationship with his family has never been stronger and his future holds endless opportunities.

His Mind is Our Concern.

Mental health is a community issue. Fortunately, there's a community solution.

Bill is among one in four in Collier County who suffer from a mental illness. One in ten of us will experience some form of substance abuse. When a family member, friend or coworker battles a mental health or substance abuse problem, we suffer with them. Thankfully, David Lawrence Center is here for our community.

A not-for-profit organization founded and still governed by community leaders, the David Lawrence Center is the behavioral health component of our community's healthcare network. A true local resource, it relies on donations, fees and grants to invest in the health, safety and wellbeing of our community.

When you or someone you love needs help, call on the highly compassionate, committed and competent professionals of the David Lawrence Center to inspire you to move beyond the crisis towards life-changing wellness.

LIFE-CHANGING WELLNESS

Bruce: A Journey to Recovery

Bruce was as an only child who grew up in a loving family in Massachusetts. His father was a prominent business owner and community leader and his mother was a career oriented professional who, for as long as he could remember, had a serious drinking problem.

Bruce attended private schools and lived a strictly regimented life. When he went away to college the newfound freedom and liberty that environment afforded him meant partying, binge drinking and ultimately flunking out. After holding down a few odd jobs, he joined his father's insurance company and began to find success. He got married in a storybook atmosphere that included a large wedding with all the social trappings. As his career took off, he became a routine "social" drinker, entertaining clients on the golf and tennis courts.

When tragedy struck, Bruce's storybook life took a turn for the worse. After a night on the town while his wife was out of town, Bruce connected with a woman, brought her home and she accidentally fell to her death. As a result of the accident, he was accused of murder. The news made headlines and shocked the small community. After years of derogatory publicity, all accusations were dropped and the case never made it to trial, but the damage was done.

Bruce shares, "My wife left me. I experienced extreme psychological and emotional turmoil because of the impact it had on my parents. My mom was an emotional wreck and this made her drink more." He got psychiatric help for many years which helped him cope and he was prescribed medication to help him sleep, but the drinking problem continued and progressed.

Bruce eventually bought his father out of the business and became president, continued to be very successful, but all the while was dying inside. His drinking became less social and was completely out of his control. He had brief bouts of sobriety, but when his father died, he relapsed... hard. He was depressed and began drinking a bottle of vodka a day. He had seizures, heart problems and high blood pressure. He knew mentally and physically he could not continue like this.

Bruce adds, "I was drinking without my permission. I wanted to stop, but couldn't and didn't know a way out. I thought about suicide many times. I was tired of living the life I was in. I didn't want to die a slow death. I had had enough." He entered his fourth and final detox where he spent a week on the ICU and then entered the David Lawrence Center Crossroads residential substance abuse treatment program – a decision he knows saved his life.

Bruce, now sober for over six years, has retired to Naples and is living a "wonderful life". He is very active in the recovery community helping others find their way and he volunteers regularly at the David Lawrence Center. He shares, "My experience at Crossroads was life-changing. The best thing they taught me was that I didn't have a drinking problem, I had a thinking problem." Today, Bruce has all the tools he needs to cope with life. "I am thoroughly enjoying my retirement. I have all that I could ask for... the best life I could ever imagine."

"My experience at Crossroads was life-changing. The best thing they taught me was that I didn't have a drinking problem, I had a thinking problem."

“My counselors taught me to recognize what triggered my drug use and gave me the tools I needed to deal with my anger and anxiety.”

Lance: Recognizing How Far He's Come

Lance is a tough, fiercely independent 15-year-old who faced far too many hardships growing up. His parents, both drug addicts with long rap sheets, were never around and incapable of providing emotional support. Without love, guidance and the nurturing he needed, Lance was forced to grow up fast.

Lance shares, “I had a lot of anger issues and struggled with severe separation anxiety. I had to find a way to deal with it. When I was 11, I started smoking weed every day just to try to get by and stay calm. I don't remember much of my childhood.”

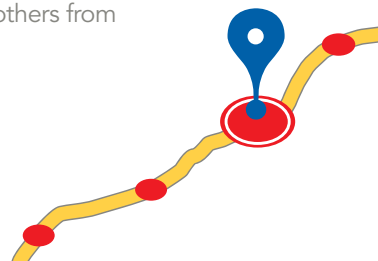

With his father and brother in jail and his mother deep in the throws of an IV drug addiction, he spent a lot of time on his own. He stopped going to school and started selling drugs to provide for himself.

Out of curiosity as to why they were his top sellers, he began using and quickly got hooked on prescription drugs. Pain killers, xanax, synthetic marijuana...he tried them all. The school system and the court system, tried to get him the help he needed, but he didn't want it and continued to defiantly fail drug test after drug test. He ran away and got kicked out of several treatment programs, before settling into eight months of residential care.

Thankfully, Lance moved in with his great aunt, who provided the structure and security he needed. After a brief relapse, in order to remain in her house, she insisted he attend the David Lawrence Center Breaking the Chains program which is an intensive substance abuse group therapy program for adolescents who struggle with coexisting substance dependence and mental health and behavioral issues. He's been sober ever since.

When Lance looks back on his journey, he realizes how far he's come and is focused on making sure he never goes back. He shares, “You can't help an addict until they want help. Once I realized that everyone was there to help me and they really cared, I started to listen.”

Today, Lance is back in school and hopes to become a marine after graduation. In order to give back, he is bravely volunteering to share his experiences publicly in order to prevent others from following in his footsteps.
